IMPORTANT VISA INFORMATION

Which type of Russian Visa do I need?

RUSSIAN BUSINESS VISA

If you are attending the Exhibition as an exhibitor or expect to undertake business activities whilst there, we recommend that you travel on a Business Visa.

Please note: The event organizer is not responsible for providing any documentation you may require in order to obtain your visa.

Remember to give yourself enough time to obtain your Russian visa; depending upon your nationality this can take up to 8 weeks.

OBTAINING A RUSSIAN VISA PROCESS:

Step 1. Obtaining a Visa Support/Telex

Step 2: Applying for a Visa at the Russian Consulate/Visa Centre in the country of your residency.

IMPORTANT VISA SUPPORT/INVITE INFORMATION

Documents required:

1. A clear color scanned copy of your passport

2. Completed Visa support order form

3. A Support letter from applicant's employer

(additional document for some nationalities)

4. Other documents which might be requested by the Russian MFA.

How your Telex or Letter of Invitation is delivered to you

After the Business Telex is granted by the Russian MFA, it will be sent directly from Moscow to the relevant Russian Consulate abroad. A copy of Telex will be emailed to the applicant. Once the Russian Consulate receives it from Moscow, the applicant can apply for the visa at the Russian Consulate.

A Letter of Invitation issued for all EU nationals by an authorized Russian company is acceptable by the Russian Consulates abroad. An original might be required to be delivered from Moscow and the visa application process might take longer. Please check with your local Consulate for all visa requirements.

All visa supports are issued on the assumption that you will be entering Russia via a Moscow airport. If you are not, please alert us to this fact before ordering your visa support - additional documentation will be needed.
